PACK'S POKER

The object of the game is for the player to achieve a higher five card poker hand than the dealer by combining their five card hand with one or more of the two card packs of community cards.

Rules:

Players may use one or both cards in each individual pack of community cards, or they can use just the five cards they were dealt. A single standard deck of playing cards will be used when dealing Pack's Poker.

To start the game, player's need to place a wager on one or more of the Pack's circles and must bet the Ante bonus circle in which a Pack's bet has been made. The dealer will then deal five cards face down to each player and themselves, along with 3 separate packs of community cards, containing 2 cards in each of the packs.

After players view their cards the dealer will reveal the 1st pack of community cards. After viewing the 1st pack of community cards the dealer starting from his right will compare his hand with the two community cards, and the players hand with the two community cards to determine who has the highest hand. To win the wager placed on the Pack's bet, players need to achieve a hand consisting of a pair or higher and must beat the dealer's hand. The highest poker hand wins. In the event of a tie, the hand is a push. This process will be repeated until each Pack is settled.

When the dealer's hand beats the player's hand, the player loses his Pack Bet wager. When the player's hand has a pair or higher and beats the dealer's hand, the player retains their Pack's Bet wager and is paid even money on their Pack's bet. If the player hand ties the dealers hands its considered a push (no winners).

Should a player achieve a bonus hand of Three of a Kind or higher, they will receive an additional amount paid ONLY on the Ante Bonus spot based on the highest single payout for a hand they achieve according to the Ante Bonus pay table. If the player does not qualify for a bonus hand, the dealer will collect the Ante Bonus wager.

Should a player achieve a bonus hand or tie a bonus hand with the dealer, the player shall still receive their Ante Bonus award and retain their Ante Bonus wager.
